My Dear Friend

Yesterday's post brought me the highly valued Heliotype of our beloved George Thompson which your kind remembrance sent me. As I see it near by a photograph of another dear friend Richard D. Webb struck coming memories of other days when "we went gypsying" strong around me. It is to be hoped that the active ones now on the stage may have as "good times" as blessed ones on the tribune way.

Judging by some that have late ly been with us. E. C. Stanton & Mary Livermore they take not the sustaining joy of the battle.

A letter from our dear M. H. Chapman tells me of your visit to Weymouth. "We were all happier to see Mr Garrison than I can tell." I doubt it not. She wrote of "Commemoration Service" for George Thompson. Of course some there must be, — but in what form? Upon whatever you may decide, I wish to aid if in my power. I have had no opportunity to talk the matter over with our "Roadside" friends, & how few there are left with us who can remember — the "+ - angel borne upon the wind" which M. H. C. celebrates in her "In Memoriam" Sonnet — in which so much is condensed. Will it not be published? I am very happy in having it from her — as I am in her occasional letter to me.

17th. Interrupted in finishing my letter which should have acknowledged promptly your valued gift.

Mrs. Mary & her daughter of Leicester have been with us a few hours; she told me much of Boston & my friends that was interesting to me- with the mention of your darling Jamy's illness she gave the comforting assurance of her convalescence.

The Unitarian Convention which was held here was esteemed a great success & full of delight to its members. Every one was saying "So good a time" "A good time." responded Charles Elmes. "Nothing to a Methodist or Baptist good time"!!

I hope you see the "Christian Register" of which he is now the Editor. If you are not already acquainted with him_ do go to his office & receive the cordial grasp of his hand & his heart. felt smile.

With love to Frank ever affectionately yours
Sarah Pugh
